DETAILED ACTION

Applicant has amended each of claims 1 and 5-7 to remove the limitation related to substituting delegating means for enabling the invitee to delegate a substitute to attend the meeting in response to the invitation. Otherwise, the claims remain substantially unchanged.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 20 June 2001 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

As per independent claims 1 and 5-7, Applicant argues that the present invention is distinguished over the prior art because Buhrmann teaches updating the profile based on schedule data entered by a subscriber whereas the present invention updates the profile based on an invitee's response to an invitation. Applicant further argues that this distinction is significant because Buhrmann requires that a subscriber enter schedule information whereas the present invention automatically updates the profile based merely on whether an invitee accepts or declines an invitation. Examiner disagrees that this is a patently significant distinction. By accepting or rejecting an invitation, the invitee of the present invention is in fact providing scheduling information (i.e., as to whether the invitee will be attending the particular function at the particular time). The fact that the present invention automatically updates the profile based on this information does not make it patently distinct from the subscriber manually updating the profile because it was known at the time of the invention that merely providing an automatic means to replace a manual activity which accomplishes the same result (i.e., that the profile is updated) is not sufficient to distinguish over the prior art, In re Venner, 262 F.2d 91, 95, 120 USPQ 193, 194 (CCPA 1958). Applicant's objection to the use of In re Venner is also rejected. Applicant has not demonstrated criticality beyond asserting that the present invention is automatic and thus does not require manual updating. To state that automating the process is critical because it makes the process automatic is a circular argument that does not overcome the case law as set forth in In re Venner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Since the Applicant's amendment of independent claims 1 and 5-7 serves to broaden the claimed invention, since Applicant provides no new narrowing limitations, and since Applicant's arguments regarding the remaining limitations have been addressed above, the rejection of these claims under 35 USC 103 as set forth and made clear in the previous Office Actions (Papers 14, 9, 7 and 4) are carried forward and maintained.

Since no amendments or arguments have been presented regarding dependent claims 2-4 and 8-16, the rejections of these claims are also carried forward and maintained.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
